

ABSTRACT

Percutaneous absorption preparations which make it possible to absorb compounds having a melatonin receptor agonist activity via a convenient administration system, 5 have favorable blood-drug-concentration-time profile and can exert a therapeutic effect on a disease caused by a decrease in secretion of melatonin at night.